

158. Some Points for a Comparative Study of Organic and Hysterical Motor Paralysis. 1893

159. Study. One constant principle, repression, abreaction.

Freud's contact with these ideas had begun in about 1887 and in the following years he was becoming more and more absorbed with it.